SSA's Listing Addressing Systemic Sclerosis

The Social Security Administration (SSA) has developed a specific listing addressing criteria considered when assessing Social Security Disability and Supplemental Security Income entitlement based on systemic sclerosis. If an individual's impairment meets, or is equivalent to the listing laid out below, the Administration will direct a finding of disability. Please note, however, individuals suffering from systemic sclerosis can still be found disabled even if their conditions do not exactly fit the Administration's criteria in the below listing. In such instances, age and vocational background are often crucial factors in such claims.
